

Law Enforcement Overdose Reversal Success Stories

Lieutenant Detective Pat Glynn: Saving Lives with Narcan

Lieutenant Detective Pat Glynn, Commander of the Special Investigations/Narcotics Unit of the Quincy, MA, Police Department, shares some impressive results where opioid overdose deaths have been greatly reduced by officers carrying naloxone, or Narcan. This video was recorded at the Law Enforcement Safety and Drug Policy Summit, coordinated by the North Carolina Harm Reduction Coalition, June 12, 2012, in Raleigh, NC.

<https://www.bjatraining.org/naloxone/lieutenant-detective-pat-glynn-saving-lives-narcan>

New York Department of Criminal Justice Services Officer Interview

New York Police Department (NYPD) Officers speaking of their experience using and administering naloxone to prevent fatal opioid overdoses. Film by Joshua Vinehout, NYS Division of Criminal Justice Services.

<https://www.bjatraining.org/naloxone/new-york-department-criminal-justice-services-officer-interview>

Ocean County, NJ, Police Get Drug Overdose Antidote

Ocean County police officers learned how to administer the medication naloxone to temporarily reverse the effects of a narcotic overdose. Video courtesy of NJTV news and the Ocean County, NJ, Prosecutor's Office. <https://www.bjatraining.org/naloxone/ocean-county-nj-police-get-drug-overdose-antidote>

For more information visit the link below:

<https://www.bjatraining.org/tools/naloxone/Law%2BEnforcement%2Band%2BNaloxone>